

House Money

House Money

House Money is a side bet that makes the game of Blackjack even more exciting. The House Money side bet pays a basic payout on the player's 2-card starting hand, with an option to add these winnings to the original Blackjack bet.

The Aim of the Game

A player makes an optional wager to bet that their first two cards dealt will be either, Ace-King suited, a 2-Card Straight Flush, a Pair or a 2-Card Straight, before continuing with the casino's standard Blackjack game. To further add excitement to the game, the player then has the option to 'cap' their main Blackjack bet with all or a portion of proceeds from the House Money side bet.

Player's Guide

How to play

A player may place a House Money Bet on any box on which the player has placed a Blackjack wager, before any cards in the round of play are dealt. The House Money Bet must be within the limits of the minimum and maximum signage displayed on the table.

The House Money wager is based on the first two cards dealt being either; an Ace-King suited, a 2-Card Straight Flush, a Pair or a 2-Card Straight.

When the initial two cards have been dealt, the dealer will remove all losing House Money Bets working from right to left and then pay any winning bets before any further cards are dealt. The dealer will ask the players if they want the proceeds (the win plus the original House Money bet) or a portion thereof given to them or to be added to the players Blackjack wager.

Once all House Money wagers have been settled the dealer will continue the casinos standard Blackjack game.

If the player chooses to 'cap' his initial Blackjack wager by adding the winnings of the House Money side bet, the entire amount of the wager must be matched when a player chooses to split or double hands.

* The Original House Money wager IS also returned to the player.
